Welcome to Environment, Politics and Society. My name is Jamie Buchan and I am the Module Leader for the course. Lecture slides will be posted in the relevant sections below, shortly before each lecture.

Please note that all information for the weekly tutorials, including required reading, can be found in the module handbook. The handbook should answer most of the most common questions, but if you have a question not answered here, please ask me either in person or by email on j.buchan@napier.ac.uk.

In addition, the Leganto reading list (linked below) should provide a straightforward way to access your core and additional readings for each week. This is a new system so please contact me and/or the library with any feedback about this.

Announcements
General news and announcements will be posted here (students can't reply) and you will also receive an email notification.

Reading Lists

Welcome to the Reading List Wiki!

These wiki pages contain information, workflows, procedures, and training documentation for staff in Information Services who work with Reading Lists. Information for academic staff on how to use Reading Lists can be found on the Library Guide to Reading Lists page. This small URL for this wiki is <http://www.url.napier.ac.uk/readinglists>.

Reading Lists

The Reading List Management System is a cloud-based programme called Leganto, and is a module of Alma (our Library Management System). Information Services staff can access and work on Reading Lists from the customer-facing Leganto, or from the Library-side through Alma.

What is a wiki library?

Wikiki means quick in Hawaiian. A wiki library is a document library in which users can easily edit any page. The library grows organically by linking existing pages together or by creating links to new pages. If a user finds a link to an uncreated page, he or she can follow the link and create the page.

In business environments, a wiki library provides a low-maintenance way to record knowledge. Information that is usually traded in e-mail messages, gleaned from hallway conversations, or written on paper can instead be recorded in a wiki library, in context with similar knowledge.

What we will do next

Why we did it

Student

"Highly beneficial... Mainly because of the ease of accessing core material. From a 4th year perspective this is very useful."

Lecturer

"Leganto is super easy to use (even as a non-techy person!) and (fingers crossed) the students will read more as it is making resources more accessible."
